Formal hearings will be held to receive public input on the newly developed rule 21.17.XX NMAC – Hemp Cultivation Rule.

Purpose:

To develop a rule to accompany statutory language which allows the department of agriculture to administer an industrial hemp program.

The 2014 farm bill included the first provision of federal law which allowed for hemp production and research. The farm bill allowed state departments of agriculture and institutions of higher education to pursue production in states where hemp could be legally grown.

During the 2017 legislative session, Senate Bill 6 was passed and chaptered into law. SB 6 granted NMDA the authority to develop an industrial hemp program and promulgate rules for the administration of that program which would complement federal law. State statute also grants persons and institutions of higher education the ability to apply for an industrial hemp production license through the NMDA. The proposed rule establishes licensure requirements, fee caps, inspection/sampling requirements, and testing processes to ensure uniformity to the definition of hemp.

Rule Summary: To establish a rule for the administration of the newly created hemp program at the New Mexico Department of Agriculture. The proposed rule establishes licensure requirements, fee caps, inspection/sampling requirements, and testing processes to ensure uniformity to the definition of hemp.

Legal Authority Authorizing the Rule:

Granted to the board of regents of New Mexico State University under the Industrial Hemp Research and Development Program Act, Chapter 76, Article 24, Section 1, NMSA 1978 Compilation.
